The Seronado of Mayor Grabb, on SatSerry That Fish Couldn't Take a Drink of Beer With Him. urday night, and all that went with it, forms

The seronads of Mayor Grubb, on Saturday night, and all that went with it, forms a chapter unique in the history of Wheeling. The demonstration was as remarkable as the conspiracy to drag down an honorable man and punish a public officer for doing his duty. If the purpose of the mayor's active friends had been advertised, all the public halls in Wheeling would not have held the people.

The truth is, public sentiment is on the side of right, and citizens of all conditions, without regard to political affiliation, have desired an opportunity to declare in some public and notable manner their sympathy with the Mayor in his trial, their pride is his vindicated moral cleanliness and their utter detestation of those evil influence which have beset him and conspired to work his overthrow. All this the spontaneous and enthusias'ic meeting of Saturday night meant, and these who do not so understand it in each particular phase lose something of the creential significance.

The outparing bore the double character of a testimonial to the Mayor and an indignation meeting. This was the purpose of the assemblage and this inhered in the nature of the scandalous proceedings out of which the demonstration grow. If nobody had wronged the Mayor there had been no vindication, no serenade, no carrying of the Mayor on men's shoulders

"Where is Fish? Can't you had min." I would like to ask him to have a glass of beer with us. I am sure he would be glad to join us."

The would he a strange feature of this remarkable case if the gailty persons were to escape all public con immation for the part they have played in a reandalous affair such as has rarely been witnessed in any civilized society. The people would indeed be helpless against solarmers of the indeed be helpless against schemers of that

When the whipping-post as a remedy for the wile-beater's ailment was first suggested to this generation the proposition was variously regarded. By some it was looked upon as a piece of savage pless antry; by others as an effort to revive a relic of barbarism to which only the little State of Delaware had clung in the face of the recording the reliction of the city, situate on the east side of South Broadway. MORGANTOWN'S CENTENNIAL. The Interesting Exercises of Last Thursday. Prominent People Present.

Deprespondence of the Intelligence.

Moreantown, W. V.A., Oct. 30.—Yesterday was a great day for Morgantown. She celebrated her one-hundredth birthday, and she did it in a most fitting and pleasing manner. The weather was not all that could be desired, but it did not in the least dampen the arder of the celebrants.

It is estimated that the crowd numbered fully 8,000. The observance of the Centenniai was throughout attended by all the pomp and circumstance that the rural facilities would allow. The houses of every one of the inhabitants were decrated with flags and bunting, while innumerable arches of evergreen and laurel were strung across. of evergreen and laurel were strung across the three or four streets of the town at any civilized society. The people would indeed be helpless against schemers of that kidney—no honest, courageous officer would be safe in the discharge of his duty—if the only penalty of so bold and conscienceless an enterprise were the mere morfification of failure to blacken a pure character. The people feel much more than this, and they expect their manly sentiments of indignation to be heralded for them. So long as there is a stalwart sense of right, so long as there is a free press and the freedom of speech is untrammeled, there will be voices to respond to the popular demand that the right shall be upheld and wrong, in whatever place, denounced as wrong ever should be.

The people of Wheeling have learned a lesson by the sesault on their Mayor, and in their own way they will be likely to profit by it. They cannot afford to let it pass as a mere incident of a conflict in which one good man has put down a host of accusers. The meaning of it all is broader than this, and the people understand it well.

Por the man who Heats His Wife.

Once more a Philadelphia Grand Jury has recommended the whipping-post as the only adequate remedy for wife-beaters. The presiding judge said he fully concurred in the recommendation, adding that whenever he caught one of these bratish specimens he gave him all the law allowed.

the time seems to be the whipping-post.

The Delaware plan cannot be regarded as a highly refined method of dealing with offenders. But there are offensee which society has not been able to prevent or even to check by ordinary methods, and wife-beating is one of them. It cannotbe argued in behalf of the wife-beater, as it is successfully maintained in behalf of certain other law breakers, that the whipping-post takes out of him all the manhood that is in him. The fellow who beats

Society owes its helping hand to the defenceless who cannot help themselves. It will have to step between the wife-beater and his victim, assuring a cuize that will and Weitzel had been rooming at John McGamon's, on McCulloch street.
